

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUTION

After analyzing and investigating the 12 ambiguous sentences with adjective clauses of certain dates in The Jakarta Post newspaper in the perspective of syntax which is promoted by Hollow with tree diagram, construction and constituent, it reveals that the structural ambiguous sentences with adjective clause in this thesis are caused by the position of preposition and conjunction.

The research also conclude that preposition and conjunction in forming structural ambiguous sentences have two functions that may cause ambiguous meaning. The first function is the preposition and conjunction are able to unite two different constituents to be one single construction where the following adjective clause in this type of sentences modifies the whole construction. Meanwhile, the second function of preposition and conjunction is to separate one single construction into two different constituent where the following adjective clause in this type of sentences only modifies the closest constituent before the adjective clause.

