

CHAPTER IV

CONCLUSION

After analyzing the types of maxims based on Cooperative Principle each utterance contains the Grice maxim used in “Thor Ragnarok” movie. The writer found there are four cooperative principals that exist in the conversation "Thor Ragnarok" Movie. That is: Maxim of Quantity, Maxim of Quality, Maxim of Relation, and Maxim of Manner.

The study of Cooperative Principle is essential because people will understand what other people exactly mean. The writer analyses the maxims based on Cooperative Principle consisting of maxim of quantity, maxim of quality, maxim of relation, maxim of manner in the movie. The writer also explains the meaning of each utterance contain of Cooperative Principle in the movie. In each utterance, it has been explained the meaning of each utterance and the explanation of the maxims in line based on Cooperative Principle.

Understanding and analyzing Cooperative Principle can be done through watching movies or reading novels. It help people to understand about Cooperative Principle. The advantages of Cooperative Principle analysis are in illustrating the kinds of things, people can do with words and identifying some of the utterance forms people use to perform specific action. By understanding of Cooperative principle, the people will have better understanding in daily communication because they have the knowledge and understand about the people’s messages.

The writer concludes that based on the four maxims found in the movie, the maxim of quality has the biggest number of examples. It indicates that most of the conversations in “The Thor Ragnarok” involve explanation by a speaker to a listener. Based on the concept of maxim of quality, the speaker emphasizes his/her statement through an explanation not just a straight forward answer.

